Goodbye October, Hello November! I can't believe where the time is going. It has been a busy month of visiting the apple orchard, celebrating birthdays, saying goodbye to Ms. Abby & Nash, and saying hello to our new friend Mustafa!

We had fun celebrating our Halloween and Fall Harvest throughout the month of October. We learned about Fall (Autumn), pumpkins, apples, and Halloween. We explored pumpkins and their insides and baked up the seeds inside! We also brought back apples from our trip to the apple orchard and made our own crockpot applesauce! We loved exploring the orchard and learning about how apples grow on trees, and then exploring the parts of an apple when we cut up the apples for our applesauce!

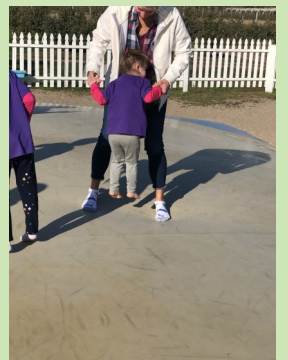

We talked about our virtue Perseverance and that we can do hard things! Each day we focused on pointing out hard things that our friends were able to do and say, "you did it!" It was fun to see their faces light up each time they accomplished something hard on their own. It was important to remind our friends that it's okay to ask for help too, as long as, we try first!

Now here we are in November! This month we will be talking about Food and Flavors. We will be experimenting with cooking and baking throughout the month. We will be learning about where our food comes from, making a recipe book, and exploring different foods and flavors. Our virtue of the month is Thankfulness. We will be discovering more about thankfulness through books, experiences, and daily shoutouts. This is a great virtue to learn through watching parents, loved ones, and teachers. Throughout our day we thank the children for things that they do without reminders or when they go out of their way to help a friend.

This month is going to start calming down from our busy month of October. We are going to be celebrating Carter and Mustafa's birthday! On the 24th of November, we will be having a Thankful Feast and a Fall Harvest Party! We will be having two dress up days during the month. On the 19th dress in your Vikings or Packers gear to cheer on the game for Sunday! Lastly, on the 22nd we will have a Pajama Day!

Reminders:

-Please check and update extra clothing in your child's cubby, as well as, bringing in hats, mittens, and coats. (Please be sure to have boots and snow pants ready for when we have the first snow fall or temperatures drop low)

Thank you!
